INFORMATION LETTER

DEAR STUDENTS, MASTER'S STUDENTS, AND PhD STUDENTS!

WE INVITE YOU TO TAKE PART IN THE IX International Scientific and Practical Conference of Students, Master's Students, and PhD Students "Modern English-language Academic Discourse", which will take place on 19 November 2026 at Poltava V. G. Korolenko National Pedagogical University.

The main goal of the conference is to exchange experience in researching English-language content (the English language and English-language literatures of various countries), to motivate young people to use English-language academic sources, and to apply promising methods for teaching English language and English-language literatures in today's educational space.

The following sections are planned:

1. Current challenges and trends in English-language philology.
2. Innovations and challenges of translation amid modern technologies.
3. English-language fiction: theoretical, historical-cultural, and comparative perspectives.
4. Methods of teaching English language and literature in today's educational space.
5. English-language discourse in the context of Ukrainian literary and linguistic studies.

Working languages of the conference: Ukrainian, English.

Forms of participation: in-person (on-site attendance), online (attendance in Zoom-conference), and by correspondence (article publication only).

Participants' articles will be published in a separate collection.

To take part in the conference, please by 5 November 2026 send an email to the organizing committee at ifl-anf-englishdiscourse@gsuite.pnpu.edu.ua (contact person – Taran Larysa Anatoliivna):

1) an electronic copy of the article (name the article file with the author's surname in Cyrillic script following the example Коваленко_стаття), saved in Word format);

2) an electronic copy of the registration form (fill in the table as a separate file in Word). Name the registration-form file (author information) with the author's surname, for example: Коваленко_інфо.

Please, fill in the form: <https://forms.gle/c6LqdU5ekmGDNYpT6>

Based on the results of the conference, an electronic publication will be compiled, titled Modern English-language Academic Discourse : a collection of scholarly papers by students, master's students, and PhD students / edited by O. M. Nikolenko, M. O. Zuyenko. Poltava : PNPu, 2026. Issue 9.

Requirements for Article Formatting

Text length – up to 5 pages.

Page parameters: all margins – 2 cm. Font – Times New Roman; font size – 14; line spacing – 1; paragraph indent – 1.25 cm.

Attention! Set the paragraph indent via “Format – Paragraph”, not using the Tab key.

Be sure to distinguish between a hyphen (-) and a dash (–).

Use quotation marks like these: “ ”.

Use the apostrophe like this: ’ (e.g., п’ять – “five”).

The following are not allowed: double spaces between words, or formatting marks such as “line break”, “start new page”, or “start new section”.

Due to possible technical difficulties in typesetting the collection, we strongly recommend not using diagrams, tables, or figures.

In the upper right-hand corner, give the author’s surname and initials in bold italics; on the next line, give the full name of the institution in italics, without abbreviations; the third line – in bold italics – gives the academic degree, academic title, and the surname and initials of the research advisor; leave a blank line, then give the title of the paper in bold letters (centered); leave a blank line, then give the abstract in Ukrainian (3–5 lines, font size 12, italics); on the next line, give the keywords (3–5 words, font size 12, italics); leave a blank line, then provide the main text. After the text and the references, leave a blank line, then give the abstract and keywords in English (as described above).

Attention! Text should be justified, not with spaces!

For example:

Kovalenko Mariia Valeriivna
Poltava V. G. Korolenko National Pedagogical University
Research advisor – PhD in Philology, Associate Professor, Associate Professor of the Department of English and German Philology, Petrova N. F.

Lingual Means of Expressing the Concept JOY

The article deals with structural and semantic properties of verbal deriving stems and derivational suffixes in the process of forming semantic structures of deverbal nouns and the productive models of their making in Modern English.

Key words: deriving stem, derived stem, deverbal noun, derivational suffix, derivational model, semantic structure, valency.

Words, sentences, and text fragments being analyzed in the article are given in italics; concepts are placed in quotation marks (for example: to express the concept “hospitable” [гостинний], English has the word hospitable); concepts are written in capital letters (for example: the concept LOVE is verbalized in modern English through a range of words such as love, passion ...). Necessary fragments are given in bold italics.

References are formatted as follows: [1, p. 3], [5, p. 4–7; 8, p. 17–21], where the first number is the source number in the reference list, and the number after “p.” is the page number (after “p.” there is a non-breaking space before the page number – press together Shift+Ctrl+Space).

References are mandatory.

The list of references should be formatted in accordance with the requirements of the National Standard of Ukraine “Information and Documentation. Bibliographic Reference. General Provisions and Rules of Compilation. DSTU 8302:2015” and given in alphabetical order after the heading References.

Below (if needed), provide the List of Sources Used (illustrative material). References to sources of illustrative material are formatted as follows: (4, p. 235).

Articles must include the results of the author’s own research and must be free of logical, stylistic, and typographical errors. The author and the research advisor bear responsibility for the content of the article and the accuracy of the references.

The following will not be accepted for publication: works that suffer from

- 1) plagiarism;
- 2) lack of original research;
- 3) translation of the text using machine translation tools;
- 4) incorrect references;
- 5) technical non-compliance with the requirements.

Participants whose work is approved by the organizing committee will be sent an invitation by email to the address specified in the registration form.

Phone for inquiries: 066 3329 159 – Taran Larysa Anatoliivna, Head of the Teaching Laboratory of the Department of English and German Philology.
